We aim to provide a high quality, environmentally aware, letter collection and delivery service for local businesses within our operational areas.

By understanding the cultural and even geographical challenges faced by smaller businesses every day, we can tailor our services to meet the needs of our individual customers and provide them with the service that suits them best.

Taking care of what matters most...

We have used estimates made by Pitney Bowes on the carbon produced in the distribution phase of a letter to work out that every letter delivered by Velopost prevents the generation of 17.9 grams of CO₂.

Based on our current delivery volumes for our flagship site in Bristol we estimate that we prevent the generation of roughly 2,940,075 Grams or 3.24 Short Tons of CO₂ per annum in Bristol alone. Based on this estimate, since our set up in October 2011, to date we have prevented the generation of 1,470,038 Grams or 1.62 Short Tons of CO₂.

We are committed to promoting environmental sustainability and encouraging the creation of an infrastructure that is not reliant on fossil fuels for its propagation.
